FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Joe Fustolo Named Manager Of The EAW Application Support Group (ASG)

Whitinsville, MA – May 1, 2007 - Professional audio industry veteran Joe Fustolo has been named Manager of the EAW Application Support Group (ASG), the company's multifaceted team offering a wide range of specialized technical services to the EAW customer base. The appointment was announced by Jeffrey Cox, Vice President of the EAW Brand Group.

Fustolo brings more 15 years of hands-on pro audio experience in leading the ASG team, which serves to provide in-depth technical and system information which includes product and application guidance, loudspeaker system design and review, as well as hands on training and educational tools such as white papers and CD-ROMs. ASG also provides answers and input via EAW's popular on-line technical forum established on the company website (www.eaw.com).

Fustolo joined EAW five years ago as an ASG Specialist, and previously served as a sound system designer/installer for a leading system integration firm in the Boston area. Prior to that, he served as FOH and monitor engineer for a large sound reinforcement company based in New England, in addition to a stint as a recording engineer.

"I plan to not only continue the exceptionally high standards set by ASG in serving our customers, but to expand upon EAW's overall long-standing tradition of providing the best support possible," Fustolo notes. "It's truly a privilege to work with cutting-edge products and the brightest, most passionate people in the pro audio industry."
